

Food Safety For All

Studying for a Career in the Food Sector? • Concerned about Global Food Safety?

SUPPORT THE GLOBAL FOOD SAFETY CURRICULA INITIATIVE

Led by the International Union of Food Science and Technology (IUFoST), the Global Food Safety Curricula Initiative (GFSCI) is reaching around the world to Harness the Power of Education to improve food safety for all. It will produce a harmonized core curriculum that will provide the next generation of food safety professionals with what they need to be part of global efforts to save lives and improve economic conditions for millions through global food safety.

Have Your Say

Take the GFSCI Student Survey and join academic institutions and food-related industry, government and non-government organisations by providing the GFSCI with real-world information to support curriculum development.

Join the GFSCI Community

The GFSCI is supported by the World Bank and by the Global Food Safety Partnership (GFSP), a unique public-private initiative dedicated to improving the safety of food in middle-income and developing countries. It is part of a global response to concerns about food safety - and you can be too!

Connect and Be Connected

Get the details at foodsafety.iufost.org and

- Take the Student Survey
- Add your name to the GFSCI Current Student database
- Spread the word about the GFSCI:
 - talk, text, tweet, email, facebook or blog about it
 - download and share the GFSCI poster or e-postcard

IUFoST is the global scientific organization and voice for food science and technology.

Comprised of a membership of national scientific organisations from over 75 countries, IUFoST links more than 300,000 food scientists and technologists from around the world, stimulates the exchange of knowledge and develops strategies in scientific disciplines and technologies relating to the expansion, improvement, distribution and conservation of the world's food supply.

For more information, go to iufost.org